Reject Soviet Bid To Torpedo West Alliance

By Daniel De Luce

Berlin (AP) — The United States and France smashed a Soviet bid to torpedo the Western alliance yesterday. With Britain at their side, they again demanded a peace treaty for Germany without Communist shackles.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles emphasized the West's determination to maintain its defensive system as long as the Soviet Union wields "one man" domination over a military bloc of 800 million people.

He was backed up at the Big Four conference by Foreign Minister Bidault, who served notice that France would never enter any alliance with Russia that excludes the United States and Britain.

Bidault said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's twice-repeated scheme for a French-Russian-German alliance may have an "eminently desirable objective of providing European security," but Bidault refused categorically to consider it on Molotov's terms — renunciation of France's ties with America and Britain.

Dulles threw back Molotov's accusation of Western wangling against Russia with these words:

"The greatest danger to world peace lies in the fact that in some cases a vast military establishment can be made to attack by the decision of a single nation, sometimes indeed by the decision of a single man."

Dulles' 2,400-word speech spearheaded the West's counter-attack against Molotov's uncompromising stand for "neutralizing" Germany under an imposed Red influence.

Bidault, who has stuck to the West's position despite all Russian lures, was warmly congratulated by the American afterwards.

Both Dulles and Bidault warned the Soviet minister that his plan for Germany would revive the danger of German militarism by leaving that nation isolated but with national armed forces.

Together with Britain's Anthony Eden, they urged Molotov to take up without bitter polemics the Eden plan for uniting Germany by free elections at the outset.

They contrasted this with Molotov's insistence on setting up a provisional all-German government, including Communists, without an election, and having this government sign a peace treaty before the German people would be allowed to vote into office the leaders they want.

Molotov said he would submit a detailed Soviet plan for "free all-German elections" at the next session. There was no hint that this would be a climbdown in any way from his demand that the elections come last in restoring German unity.

Vietminh Forces Push Closer To Luang Prabang

Hanoi, Indochina (AP) — Vietminh columns speared another 23 miles yesterday to within 62 miles of Laos' royal city of Luang Prabang. They advanced despite a pounding from French fighters and bombers and a beating administered to one rebel advance guard by Laotian troops.

The rebel drive across northern Laos toward the Mekong River, dividing Indochina and Thailand, was part of a general Vietminh offensive that crackled on at least six sectors. French Union forces beat off a new drive in south-central Laos around Attapeu and Ban Phoung.

The strategy behind Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's winter push appeared to be to win enough territory for leverage in negotiating a truce favorable to the Communist-led rebels in the nearly eight-year-old Indochinese War.

To 'Prove' Charges

Los Angeles (AP) — Mrs. James Roosevelt yesterday promised to prove her adultery charges with "indisputable evidence" and said her husband's denials are "without basis in fact."

Coffee Prices May Stay High For 18 Months

New York (AP) — A Brazilian coffee official said yesterday rising coffee prices may go even higher in the next 18 months. He saw no prospect of a fall in price before then.

Horacio Cintra Leite, U. S. representative of the Brazilian Coffee Institute, told a news conference he sympathized with American coffee drinkers but added:

"The real truth, unhappily is that we have less coffee than we want to have."

Brazil produces about half the world's supply. Cintra Leite said his country's normal production was about 17 million bags of coffee a year, but because of last year's frost, the country produced just over 14 million bags.

Federal Curbs On Coffee Trading Urged

Washington (AP) — A maneuver to attack soaring coffee prices through government regulation surged forward in Congress yesterday.

Joseph M. Mehl, head of the Commodity Exchange Authority, told Senate investigators government supervision could stop unwarranted price rises.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.), predicted the Senate Agriculture Committee would approve the necessary legislation and quickly start it on its way through Congress.

But the president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and one of its members testified that federal control of coffee trading might result in lower supplies and even higher prices in the American market.

Before the committee, as it opened public hearings on coffee prices, was a bill by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) to add coffee to the various grains, cotton, butter and other commodities in which the CEA now attempts to prevent price manipulations and cornering of markets.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York exchange, testified that government restrictions on trading might divert coffee supplies to other countries where demand is heavy and hike prices even more in the United States.

While the exchange is convinced government control is inadvisable, Lobo said it would cooperate fully if Congress decides regulation can in any way increase the world supply of coffee, or aid in any way in bringing about lower prices for the American consumer.

Guatemala Expels American Writer

Guatemala, Guatemala (AP) — The Foreign Ministry yesterday ordered Sydney Gruson, New York Times correspondent in Mexico and Central America, expelled from Guatemala as an "undesirable."

The Foreign Office said Gruson "has systematically defamed and injured this republic and its government through the press, being one of the most active agents of a campaign to bring them into disrepute."

Guatemala has accused the United States of leading a plot to overthrow its left-wing government.

Cold Weather Predicted By Groundhog -- And Weatherman

By the Old Groundhog as told to The Associated Press

Sorry, folks, but there'll be six more weeks of winter. We groundhogs, poking around in various testing areas in Pennsylvania Tuesday, saw our shadows -- and back we scurried into our burrows. Just to escape that wintry weather, you know.

Eight members of my groundhog family did the forecasting. And the verdict was unanimous -- spring is not yet around the corner.

The forecasting was done in Quarryville, Punxsutawney, Allentown and Philadelphia.

Washington (AP) — The Weather Bureau said yesterday its out-

Mrs. Miller Found Near Trash Fire

An elderly Mount Bethel woman was burned fatally yesterday afternoon while apparently attempting to set fire to trash in her back yard.

She was Mrs. Lulu Miller, about 75. Mrs. Miller was burned at her home at about 1:30 p.m., neighbors estimated.

She died five hours later in Monroe County General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

According to a neighbor, Orton Hartley, Mount Bethel antique dealer, Mrs. Miller was discovered at about 2 p. m. by an elderly man, Bert Pinsky, also of Mount Bethel.

Hartley first heard of the fire when his mother phoned him to tell him a passerby had stopped to say a "brush fire was moving across the Miller back yard toward" the Hartley berry patch.

Hartley arrived at the Miller home at 2 p. m.; found Mrs. Miller's badly burned body. The flames had been extinguished by Pinsky, Hartley said.

A basket containing the remains of refuse lay nearby, Hartley said. Hartley asked another neighbor to cover the woman's body, then ran to his home to call the hospital ambulance and Dr. Howard Ott, Portland physician.

Dr. Ott arrived on the scene "almost immediately," Hartley said. The hospital ambulance did not arrive until "about 45 minutes later," he said.

The physician examined Mrs. Miller, then agreed with the men at the scene that the woman should be moved inside.

Using a part of an old table top for a stretcher, the men took the woman back into her home, Hartley said.

The ambulance arrived; took the woman to the hospital. She was given emergency treatment, hospital officials said, but failed to respond.

Mrs. Miller was an arthritic patient, Hartley said, who had difficulty in moving rapidly. This was believed to have been a contributing factor in her inability to escape the flames, neighbors indicated.

The body was removed to Horton funeral home, Johnsonville, last night. No funeral arrangements had been made at that time.

Eisenhower Back In Good Standing With SAR Group

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower has reversed his position on belonging to no outside organizations, and is back in good standing as an active member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The president general of the SAR, Arthur A. de la Housaye, said yesterday Eisenhower had assured him his resignation was submitted in error and that he wanted to be reinstated.

There had been a report that Eisenhower had quit the SAR and this was confirmed at the White House on Dec. 21, Murray Snyder, assistant presidential press secretary, said Eisenhower decided to drop out of all organizations except those in which he could be active, such as the Red Cross.

Farouk's Wife Granted Divorce

Cairo, Egypt (AP) — A Moslem religious court granted a divorce yesterday to former Queen Narriman and the sultry-eyed beauty joyously exclaimed "It's great to be Miss Narriman Sadek again!"

Narriman's mama, Mrs. Assila Hanem, added a note of thankfulness -- "now my daughter can think of her future with a clear mind." But she denied the pretty ex-wife of exiled King Farouk would marry Farid El Atrash, 35-year-old movie actor-crooner.

Charge Not Supported

Washington (AP) — The State Department announced last night that a three-month investigation had failed to support a charge by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that State Department personnel shook down a foreign government for $150,000.

TALKING IT OVER—During conference last night these two men announced consolidation of Nu-Maid Hosiery Mills operations into the Stroudsburg plant on W. Main St. They are John Scott, vice president in control of the mills and Dan E. Matison, general manager, in charge of operations. The Stroudsburg plant will employ an estimated 50 more persons within the next two or three months. Operations in both knitting and finishing will be increased, officials said. (Daily Record photo)

Burns Suffered Hallowe'en Fatal To Caroline Howell

Pecks Pond—The sister of young Jackie Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Pinto who was credited with saving the life of Mrs. Dorothy Miller here in March, 1953, died Jan. 28 in a Detroit hospital.

Caroline Howell, 13, was burned severely Hallowe'en when the costume she was wearing caught fire. The plucky youngster fought death for months, then succumbed in the hospital where she had been taken for skin grafting operations.

Liquor Board Profits At Record High

Harrisburg (AP) — A State Liquor Board official yesterday attributed the commonwealth's record profits on liquor during 1953 to a general business boom.

"I couldn't pin it on anything directly," said Chairman Frederick T. Gelder, "but it was probably because 1953 was the best year the nation's business ever had."

The board reported record revenue returns for 1953 of $86,266,230. Profits from sale of liquors and wine in the commonwealth's 606 state stores amounted to $41,417,186 of the total.

In addition the board collected $21,749,043 in taxes on liquor, spirits and wines sold through the store system. The State Revenue Department received $23,100,000 from the state's $2.48 per barrel tax on beer.

Gross sales, however, were below the peak year of 1946, when $218,309,773 worth of beverages were sold. The 1953 figure was $217,667,424.

Gelder explained that profits in 1946 were only about 31 1/2 million, however, because Pennsylvania did not include wartime federal taxes in figuring its store price.

When the wartime tax was continued, the board included the tax in its cost figure.

Federal taxes then were $9.40 a proof gallon of spirits, but increased in 1951 to $10.50.

Beer revenue continued to hold at more than 23 million dollars, but dropped nearly $400,000 from 1952 to $23,100,000.

Compromise Hopes Dim, Says George

Washington (AP) — Veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.) announced yesterday all hopes for a bi-partisan compromise on the Bricker amendment have vanished and the issue of limiting the President's treaty-making powers will have to be fought out on the Senate floor.

As the first move in the battle, George obtained Senate agreement to make his own substitute amendment its first order of business.

This version is opposed by the White House, but George predicted it is going to get "a surprisingly large vote."

He said he didn't know whether Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), whose own proposal for a constitutional change is practically dead, would go along with the George substitute.

The support of Bricker and his friends appears to be imperative if any constitutional amendment is to get through the Senate. About 20 of the 96 senators are opposed to making any constitutional change at all affecting treaty-making powers.

Bombes her brother Jackie, she is survived by her parents and two sisters, Florence, 11, and Susan, 20 months, and two brothers, Charles Jr., 9, and James Francis, 4.

Western Big 3 Find Air Cool At Conference

Berlin (AP) — Any way you look at it, the air was cool yesterday at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

The Russians turned on the air conditioning in the conference chamber of the new Soviet Embassy in East Berlin, where the cold war meeting was going on. Outside it was freezing.

French delegates said everyone was shivering except Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, who had complained about too much hot air in the meetings when they were held in West Berlin last week.

He drew the attention of the other ministers to the cool atmosphere and appeared quite proud of it.

McCarthy Group Voted $214,000

Washington (AP) — The Senate debated the value of Sen. McCarthy's investigations for two hours yesterday, then voted him $214,443 with no strings attached to continue his work for another year.

The Wisconsin senator defended the work of his Senate Investigations subcommittee largely against charges by Sen. Ellender (D-La.) that while finding little new, it had hashed "old stuff" previously dug up by others.

But when the showdown came, Ellender joined the huge majority which voted 85-1 to approve the new grant of funds. The lone dissenter was Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), who had taken a minor part in the debate.

Darby Facilities To Be Shifted To Stroudsburg

A move toward consolidation of Nu-Maid Hosiery Mills operation into the central Stroudsburg plant was announced last night.

The step means an increase in operations at the W. Main St. Nu-Maid Mills plant through transfer of the main office, shipping, finishing and warehouse facilities.

These operations are now carried on at the company's Darby factory. Some of the responsibilities will be assumed by the Stroudsburg mill beginning "the first part of next week."

Announcement of the move was made jointly last night by John Scott, vice president of Nu-Maid Mills, and Dan E. Matison, general manager in charge of operations.

Enlargement of the company's facilities in Stroudsburg will directly affect county employment.

Within "two or three months," Scott and Matison said, the local Nu-Maid plant will employ an estimated 50 additional persons.

Nu-Maid in Stroudsburg now has a payroll of more than 100 persons, Matison said.

In addition to increased employment, the move will mean a potential expansion of the local plant.

This physical addition to the mill would be necessitated by a possible move of a "dye house" to the local operation.

Until the present, the 27-year-old Nu-Maid Mill in Stroudsburg has been principally devoted to knitting operations.

Addition of the regular billing and sales offices, warehouses, finishing equipment and possibly dyeing operations, would bring the Stroudsburg plant into the position of a mill following each step of the hosiery products progress from knitting to shipping.

Increased employment at the local plant will be a fairly immediate thing.

Enlargement of facilities and movement of equipment from the Darby plant will entail a much longer time period, however.

According to Matison, it will take "from nine to 12 months" to accomplish the full move of equipment and operations.

One step on the agenda for the company will be movement of additional knitting machines to the Stroudsburg plant. Nu-Maid now has an estimated "25 to 30 knitting machines" at its local mill.

"During the past," Matison said, "we have found our knitting operations here have been very successful."

"Our company has always had great respect for Stroudsburg," Scott emphasized.

"Although we're now located in two other cities, we've found Stroudsburg employees are very loyal."

This observation and a belief in the ability of the local plant to turn out a satisfactory product on a large-scale basis—played an important part in the company's decision to transfer the bulk of its present operations here.

To help make the Stroudsburg plant one of the best-equipped in its chain of mills, the Nu-Maid company will install over a period the "newest, most modern equipment" to take care of increased demands, Matison said.

Value of this new equipment was placed at "around $100,000."

To help pave the way to a workable local operation, the company also intends to bring in supervisory personnel from its Darby mill.

According to Scott: "Some of the key personnel from our other locations will be brought here to train local personnel in the new problems of their jobs."

This arrangement will be purely temporary, however, Scott emphasized. Just as soon as possible, he said, the Stroudsburg mill will become a "thoroughly local operation."

The current move, Matison said, is being made in the face of bad reports from the hosiery industry in general.

"We have so much confidence in the unit which now exists in Stroudsburg and Monroe County," Matison said, "that although depressed conditions exist in the hosiery business elsewhere, we feel we can make this operation a success."

In terms of local employment, Nu-Maid's "success" in local industry will mean an additional payroll of approximately $3,000 per week.

Grave Concern Expressed For Ailing Pope

Vatican City, Wednesday, (AP) — Increasingly grave concern was expressed today for Pope Pius XII.

The British medical specialist who attended the late King George VI of Britain was reported unofficially to have been called in to help treat the 77-year-old spiritual leader of the world's 400 million Roman Catholics. The British monarch died of thrombosis after an operation for cancer of the lung.

Pope Pius is "believed to be weakening slowly as a result of sleep-disturbing hicups from a nervous stomach disorder and from an all-liquid diet."

The independent newspaper Il Messaggero reported the Pope for several days has suffered stomach pains which require almost constant application of ice packs.

Il Messaggero did not name the British specialist who has been reported called in to assist the Pope's private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lizzi. But the newspaper said that after his examinations, the Pope's doctors agreed the pontiff must have the most rest possible.

His condition was described as "still serious."

The Vatican press office said yesterday the Pope was rallying from the gastric ailment. The office issued a statement apparently aimed at dispelling fear the Pope might be suffering from a form of cancer.

Tax Program Is Defended

Washington (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, under heavy Democratic fire, strongly defended the Eisenhower administration's tax program yesterday as calculated to bring another year of prosperity little below the boom levels of 1953.

The administration's basic aim, Humphrey said, is to produce "more jobs, better jobs, and higher and better standards of living."

Democratic legislators promptly countered with a free-swinging attack on President Eisenhower's tax policies, declaring that bigger tax cuts for consumers would provide a better spur to prosperity than tax stimulants to industry.

Action On Beeson Nomination Put Off Pending Study

Washington (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee voted last night to hold up President Eisenhower's disputed nomination of Albert C. Beeson as a member of the National Labor Relations Board pending a detailed study of his relationship with his former employer.

Earlier, the committee by a straight party vote of 7-6 had approved the nomination and sent it to the Senate floor for debate, which originally had been scheduled for yesterday.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Sen. Cooper (R-Ky.) split with their colleagues last night, however, and voted to put aside the nomination pending a study of a pension plan in which Beeson was enrolled at the California company which he left to take the government position.

Jet Hits Boat Plant, Kills Two

Grand Prairie, Tex. (AP) — A jet plane crashed into a busy boat factory here yesterday. Two employees of the factory were killed and four were injured. The pilot used his ejection device to throw himself clear seconds before the crash.

The crash set off a fire in the boat works.

East Stroudsburg To Plant Thousand Trees At Playground

Landscaping Project To Be Undertaken

A thousand trees have been ordered for East Stroudsburg borough playground, it was reported last night at council meeting.

Playground committee chairman Verdon T. Gilliland told fellow council members the playground is planning a program of landscaping this spring and summer, planting evergreen seedlings for the most part.

Gilliland said the committee expects to add another softball diamond to the playground, so two games may be played simultaneously.

Council agreed it would make no move to provide new pipes and valves for the old standpipe at the end of Spangenberg Ave. after hearing a report that costs could run as high as $5,000. This had been requested as additional fire protection.

But, as Engineer Edward C. Hess pointed out, there was no need for any additions or change in the present pipeline connections with the standpipe, to get adequate protection.

The fire protection is still there for emergency use, Hess said. All that is necessary is the manual turning of a valve which will release the standpipe water into the borough's regular water lines.

Council instructed Superintendent Henry Lesoine to show some of the firemen how to operate the manual valve, and a key will be provided the fire company.

Lesoine said he planned to chlorinate the water in the standpipe so that if it is ever necessary to use it, it will be in safe condition to release into the water lines.

The standpipe water was to be released into the lines only in event of emergency when regular sources fail or are inadequate. Construction of a new water line in the district will make use of the standpipe unnecessary even in emergencies—and such construction will be completed in less than a year.

Secretary Sterling Cramer was instructed to place advertisements for applicants for a police examination.

Financial report showed the fund balances as: water $36,036.05; general $8,006.55; highway $249.48; and parking meter receipts $876.94.

Burgess Jesse S. Flory said there were a total of $155 in fines collected in January, of which $50 went to the State. One electric sign permit was sold for $5. Arrests were listed as four speeding violations, one stop sign, one reckless driving, one leaving the scene of an accident, five drunk and disorderly conduct, two for disorderly conduct, and one for failing to clean his walks.

The American Legion was given permission to hold its annual carnival on the grounds at rear of the Legion home June 14-19.

Picket Lines Established In Front Of Two Stores

Four employees of the Stroudsburg A&P Store refused to cross a two-man picket line yesterday but 25 others already in the store before 8:25 a. m. worked throughout the day as the strike of warehouse workers affiliated with the General Drivers and Helpers Union (AFL) entered its second day.

In East Stroudsburg all 21 workers reported and finished the day's schedule while two pickets walked in front of the chain store.

Managers of both stores could make no predictions as to what this morning will bring. If picket lines are again established, they said, and workers refuse to cross them, the stores probably will be closed.

At Mount Pocono, the company's employees refused to cross a picket line that was set up before they arrived for work, so the store remained closed all day. No pickets were dispatched to the Portland store, which is also in the Scranton district.

Store employees indicated that it would be impossible to continue operating for more than a week, even if pickets were withdrawn, should the strike of warehouse workers last indefinitely. Stocks of upwards of 200 items would likely be exhausted within a week's time, one source said, and this might force the stores to close.

The strike, reportedly called for higher wages and job classification took about 200 members of the Local 229 at two Scranton A&P warehouses off their jobs and idled 2,200 workers throughout the territory, according to union estimates.

Picket lines were set up in the Stroudsburg about 8:25. The four who didn't work in Stroudsburg arrived after that hour and others already were in the store.

The strike has affected operations at the chain's stores in Northeastern Pennsylvania and southern New York State, in which there are 153 stores. A union official said yesterday about 75 per cent of the

Mediator Meets With Strikers, Store Officials

State Mediator Philip F. Bolen, Wilkes-Barre, conferred yesterday afternoon with officials of A&P and business agents of the General Drivers and Helpers Union at Scranton.

Bolen said he was hopeful that sometime this week he would be able to bring both parties together to resume negotiations of their differences.

Sole purpose of the state mediator's meeting yesterday was to lay the groundwork for a series of future negotiating meetings.

Bolen met the A&P officials at the Hotel Casey and union officials at union headquarters.

$350,000 Blaze Destroys Big Passaic Church

PASSAIC (AP)—The 79-year-old First Methodist Church was wrecked yesterday by a roaring fire that caused damage between $350,000 to $400,000.

The blaze at the big brownstone church broke out at about 4:30 a. m. Its big double steeples were turned into giant torches visible for miles.

Fire officials said the fire apparently was caused by an oil burner explosion in the basement. No one was in the church when the fire started.

Underground Gas Blast Fatal To Four Persons

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—An underground gas leak set off an explosion which killed four persons, leveled a three-family home and heavily damaged another early yesterday. Three other persons escaped amid flames, smoke and rubble.

All seven were asleep when the explosion literally tore the house apart at 5:50 a. m.

The dead are: Edward Brown, 50; his wife Esther, 47; Charles Epstein, 62; and his wife Rose, 50. Twenty minutes after the first blast a second, less severe explosion rocked the house next door but the family was out of the home before it occurred.

Cap Council Sets Budget At $10,894

Delaware Water Gap — Borough Council this week set a budget of $10,894 for the year.

At the same time council announced no change would be made in last year's taxation rates or per capita tax.

Councilmen left an "unappropriated balance" in the treasury to take care of projected road improvement in the borough limits.

These "improvements" cannot be made without proper surveys and the advice of an engineer, council said. Temporary plans call for "doing as much of the work on roads as available funds permit," council said.

Also on the agenda for council action this year: adequate drain pipes and water sewer pipes for some areas of the borough; replacement of some water pipes where the need arises.

Attending the budget session of the borough council were the following: Francis Drake, president; Richard Hauser, Willard Kitchen, Christie Shull, John Staples, Russell Shellenberger, Burgess Benjamin Wilberg, Police Chief Fred Decker and Water Commissioner Layton Hauser.

Mrs. Delbert Davis began her term as treasurer of the council. Mrs. Edythe Glebe continues as secretary.

Chief Decker, in a special request to council, was granted permission to do special policing at night.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. Heller

Services for Mrs. Emma Heller, 80, of Stroudsburg RD, were held yesterday at Gantzhorn funeral home, Tannersville, with Rev. Edward T. Horn officiating.

Burial was at Stroudsburg Cemetery. Pallbearers were Donald Hartman, Jack Heller, LeRoy Carlton and George Stewart.

Strohsahl Elected To Council

Mount Pocono — Joseph W. Strohsahl has been elected to replace J. Frank Birdsall Jr. as a borough councilman here.

The post was left vacant by Birdsall's resignation. He became ineligible for council when he moved out of the district. Resignation of Birdsall, a Republican, was accepted at Monday night's council meeting.

Strohsahl is a Republican. His election was unanimous.

He will fill a four-year term, except for the single month of January when Birdsall was still in office. Strohsahl will be sworn in by Burgess Gerald M. Passinger Monday night at a special meeting.

Chief business of the meeting will be presentation of the budget, and the setting of tax millage for the year.

Council has approved the placing of all borough employees on the Federal social security program. The program will include parttime employees too.

Falls Injure Youngsters

A 14-year-old East Stroudsburg youngster suffered a sprained right arm while skating Monday and was treated in the General Hospital dispensary. The youth is Ora Ony, 16, Gilbert St.

Also treated in the dispensary was Stephany Kintzel, 7, of Cresco, who fractured her left shoulder last week when she fell while playing.

Good Use of Heart Funds

American Heart Month opened Monday with Stroudsburg Woman's Club accepting the challenge of the Pennsylvania Heart Assn. to raise $2,600 in Monroe County towards the nation-wide fund used to combat heart diseases.

Diseases of the heart and circulation are the leading causes for disability and death in this area, as well as throughout the United States, according to Monroe County Heart Assn. experts.

We are also impressed with the fact that fear, born of lack of understanding of heart diseases, is almost as dangerous as the affliction.

The very modest goal of the campaign in Monroe County should be easily raised. The manner in which this money will be applied stands as an incentive to achieve the goal by February 15.

Sixty per cent of the contributions will be used right here in service which gives local heart patients the privilege of going to the nearest clinics for check-ups, treatments and preventive education.

Of the balance, 25 per cent will be used for research and only 15 per cent goes for national and state maintenance.

The idea of direct service to local heart patients is about as practical and appealing a use of publicly contributed funds as any agency could design.

That plan should insure success for this $2,600 fund raising effort.

Bargain Butter

The proposal that the Government unload its vast stocks of surplus butter for sale to American housewives will undoubtedly meet with approval of the consumers.

Under the plan the Government would sell to wholesalers for around 30 cents a pound. It would come over the retail counters at around 47 cents. Loss to the government would be 36 cents a pound on the millions of pounds it holds.

Administration opponents already have branded the proposal a chip off the much-condemned Brannan plan, which the Democrats wanted pushed through during the Truman Administration. And while there is no argument that it would cost the taxpayers money, they at least would be getting some benefit in lower prices. And it certainly makes more sense to let our own housewives benefit than to sell it to Russians at bargain rates by which our Government still would lose money with no benefit to the taxpayers.

Where this subsidy business will end no one knows, for if surplus butter is sold it will glut the market and create new surpluses which will keep an endless chain of subsidized butter entering the consumer market. Any way we look at it, the Government stands to lose on all the surplus it has gathered under the price support program.

The Baffled Public

To achieve great public support for the new Air Force Reserve, the Department of Defense has moved to eliminate confusing military terminology which even baffled the reservists.

First victim of this assault on language barriers was made on the term "VARTU"—Volunteer Air Reserve Training Unit. It became simply and sanely "Air Reserve."

W e offer up the prayerful hope that all this doesn't stop here. There's a thousand and one other government agencies which could do with a bit more public support, if only the public knew what language to use.

Letters For Special Delivery

Dear Ike:

Your remarks on the Yanks who went over to the Communies are okay. You are for all the facts on just how much torture and brainwashing went into it. Fair enough. And I wish you would straighten out the thinking of people who throw up their hands and cry, "How could so many American boys do a thing like this?" What they need to have emphasized is that there were only about two dozen out of the hundreds of thousands in our fighting forces and the tens of thousands captured and tortured, many of them to death. I will give you the same number of civilians in any back-home setup and bet the percentage of had eggs, queer thinkers, wrongs and mixed-up characters will be much greater.

Of the 21 who have now joined the Communies, there are some who are just weak sisters and lame brains who never did get the right picture. There are some who never got back to normal after brainwashings and are functioning on only three cylinders. There are some genuine punks who are no bargain to any civilization. And there are some who rattled on their buddies and know the evidence is all in. But if you took the crowd at any football game (even the classiest ones) and only found a couple of dozen in the stadium who were Stoopnagles, mugs, double-dealers or victims of cockeyed conclusions, wouldn't it be unusual?

Does anybody doubt that in a crowd at any world series game it would be a big break if only 21 in the grandstands, boxes and bleachers were heels or all-around baddies? Did you ever go to a big outdoor fight, Ike? In the 10,000 to 25,000 folks in the mob, would you bet nobody could find two dozen with low principles, cheap notions, minimum courage, nutty notions and a low resistance point under pressure? Take any convention, rally, mass meeting, free-for-all fight or barbeque in which there are a few thousand people involved and I will bet you that an estimate of only 21 who are screw balls, double-dealers or sufferers from wrong ideas will get you a low rating as a statistician or poll taker.

Not that I am excusing these members of the Communies 21 Club or taking any kindly look at deserters. I am just saying that the percentage is low and that the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force will always come out of any such checkup as good if not better than the folks back home would come out of such a checkup, bearing in mind, too, that the back-home guys and dolls don't find it nearly so hard to keep straight. They never have split bamboo sticks driven up under their fingernails before they weaken. In my book, Ike, the American fighting forces can hold their heads high unbothered by the Red China Twenty-One Club. It's too small to count.

Yours truly,
Pic-Oscar Purkey.

Opening nights at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York will now be telecast to theaters all over the nation . . . The Post Office Department is coming out with a stamp showing a flight of wild ducks . . . Makes squawking easier if the mail is late, no doubt . . . A woman sues her husband charging that he aimed his auto at her . . . Wives are getting so sensitive these days . . . Dramatic critics agreed to let Billy Rose produce a new show for a week before they would review it . . . Fair enough, but why not do as much for all producers seeking a similar break? . . . Kids are screened to be sure there are no child wonders, showoffs or pros, and the answers are side splitting . . . This way out, January, and I will bet you that an estimate of only 21 who are screw balls, double-dealers or sufferers from wrong ideas will get you a low rating as a statistician or poll taker.

GREAT TRUNK MYSTERY

Robert S. Allen Reports

Indo-China To Get 500 Air Force Technicians

Washington — The U. S. is sending around 500 Air Force technicians to Red-Perished Indo-China.

The airman will do no fighting. Their sole function is to assist the desperately hard pressed French to maintain the combat and transport planes being supplied them by the U. S.

President Eisenhower authorized dispatch of the technicians at the urgent request of the French and on the strong recommendation of Admiral Arthur Radford.

Decisive factor in the French action is the dire need of the French to support remote outposts that are being fiercely assaulted by large Communist forces armed with Russian anti-aircraft guns.

These crucial French strongholds can be effectively supplied only by air. But that is being critically endangered by the enemy's surprise employment of powerful anti-aircraft artillery. These weapons are causing so much plane damage that the French are unable to cope with the huge, and unexpected, repair and maintenance problem. As a result, numerous indispensable American aircraft are grounded for lack of mechanics to keep them flying.

The aggressor Vietnam were armed with AA guns by Red China, which originally obtained them from Russia for the Korean war.

Since the Korean truce, China has greatly increased all its military aid to the Vietnam. As previously reported in this column, the Chinese are now training more than 30,000 Vietnam troops and are supporting the intensifying Communist offensive with large quantities of artillery, automatic weapons, munitions and motor transport.

In addition, the Chinese are massing jet fighters near the Indo-China border. An estimated 100 Russian MIG-15s, shifted from Manchuria, have been installed on newly-built airfields within a relatively short distance of important French positions. The Chinese also are establishing other airbases in this region, where they are known to have armies totaling upwards of 200,000 troops.

The President did not consult the Joint Chiefs of Staff in deciding to send Air Force technicians to help the French. He discussed the matter only with Admiral Radford.

The Joint Chiefs have considered the advisability of using American Air and Naval units in Indo-China, but never did anything about it. Inner Pentagon word is that General Matthew Ridgway and Air General Nathan Twining are doubtful of the military value of such involvement.

Radford has long favored reinforcing the French with American manpower, as well as combat materiel.

He put out a significant feeler on that in a speech at West Point early last December, his first as head of the Joint Chiefs. In that address, which was read and cleared by the White House and Defense Secretary Wilson, Radford pointedly stressed that powerful forces alone can defeat the Red aggression in Indo-China and then concluded with an unanswered question, "There is no doubt about the need for more forces, the only problem is 'who shall supply them?'"

The dispatch of 500 Air Force technicians may be one answer to Radford's prophetic question.

Notes: Still undecided is whether the American mechanics will wear uniforms or civilian clothes. The decision is largely up to the State Department. Secretary Dulles heartily supported Admiral Radford's recommendation that the technicians be sent to Indo-China. In issuing that order, the President directed the Pentagon to consult the State Department on all aspects of the matter . . . Before flying to Berlin for the Foreign Ministers conference, Dulles told the Senate Armed Services Committee that American aid to the French in the Indo-China war will "amount to more than $1,000,000,000 this fiscal year. So far, we have given them $785,000,000 in money and military supplies" . . . Several weeks before President Eisenhower decided to send air mechanics to Indo-China, he directed Major General George C. Stewart, head of the Military Assistance Program, to go there for a first-hand survey of both the combat and logistics situation.

Despairing of finding an able-bodied man to help him with the harvesting, Farmer Perkins had to settle for a pretty feeble character with a grey stubble on his chin. The first evening, the new hand stowed away an enormous dinner without volunteering more than a satisfied grunt or two; then shuffled off to hit the sack. Come 5 A.M., while it was still pitch black outside, Farmer Perkins pulled him out of bed and led him to breakfast. Again he ate a whopping meal, pushed back his chair, and cracked happily. "This sure is the place I been lookin' for; two big suppers in one night!" — and headed back to his bedroom.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Law, Politicians, Management Are Not Guiltless In Red, Racketeering Unions

Back in the early days of the New Deal, it made sense to quarrel over the nature and purpose of labor unions. I once wrote a book on the subject, which is now out of print, but which warned of the dangers of new trends in trade unionism.

In 1934, the labor unions are in the United States to stay and a system of operations has been established which has the sanction of Congressional action and judicial decision. It serves no valid purpose to oppose trade unionism per se, although it is possible to say that those who opposed Prohibition kept up their opposition until a Constitutional amendment was passed abolishing that abomination.

It is not likely that any opposition to labor unions will lead to a change in the social institutions arising from their existence. American industry has adjusted to the necessity of some form of collective bargaining under the legal arrangements first stipulated in the Wagner Law and now in the Taft-Hartley Law.

The proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley Law, as advocated by President Eisenhower, in no manner alters the relationship between management and the unions. It is probable that management desires no radical alteration in those relationships, as was evident in a series of private conferences last Spring and Summer between lawyers representing industry and the unions. In fact, most industries, either separately or in their trade associations, have established permanent labor law departments as a result of the vast changes in management-union problems which have emerged and taken form since 1935.

Whether a union belongs to the A.F. of L., the C. I. O., to John L. Lewis's separate enterprise or to an independent union, it is being managed by professionals whose principal business is to operate labor unions. These professionals may be divided into four categories:

1. Careerists;
2. The old school of Social Democrats;
3. Racketeers;
4. Communists.

The careerists are professionals who operate unions as a way of life and are concerned with the success of their unions. Such men as John L. Lewis and George Meany represent this type of labor leader and generally serve their unions well. They are usually good citizens and are honest as most men are in a competitive work. They subordinate all questions to the interests of their particular union. More and more unions are falling into the hands of these careerists and on the whole, this is as it should be.

The old line Social Democrats are a small but powerful remnant of pre-Wagner Law trade unionism, when the struggle between trade unions and management was generally difficult, and the unions not very successful. These leaders are ideologically Socialists, but they are anti-Communists. The battle between Socialists and Communists is often more violent than most of us realize. It has been continuous since 1903 at London, when the Russian Social Democratic Party split between Bolsheviks and Mensheviks. The hatred of one group for the other is intense. Among the leaders of the Social Democrats are David Dubinsky and Walter Reuther and their political weapon is the Americans for Democratic Action (A. D. A.).

They differ from the non-political careerists in that their trade unionism is definitely based on political concepts and they relate themselves internationally to similar labor movements in other countries, as for example, the British Labour Party. They spend huge sums of money fighting Communism not only in the United States but in foreign countries. For instance, through the influence of David Dubinsky, Jay Lovestone, a former Communist, and Irving Brown, a Socialist, they support and, in a measure, direct anti-Communist activities in European countries.

The racketeers and Communists in trade unionism are, of course, obvious and obnoxious. Efforts to reduce the influence of these two groups have not been altogether successful, the best example of the racketeers being the Longshoremen's Union in New York and the best example of a Communist-dominated union being the UE (United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America). It must be said that the law, politicians, and management are not guiltless in the strength of both the racketeers and the Communists and the sooner the racketeers and Communists are eliminated from American trade unionism, the stronger and more respected all unions will be.

This is written in anticipation of further discussion of this subject whenever the new labor law will be before Congress for consideration.

My New York

New York—I had a morning cup of coffee with Lillian Roth the other day just before she ducked out of town for her home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. It was a pleasure. Partly because she seems to have licked alcoholism—it's been seven and a half years since she bent an elbow—and partly because she still looks about 30, at the age of 43 . . . but mostly because this time she was walking, not running, away from New York.

The time she ran was just after they let her out of a Westchester sanitarium and told her she was cured. It often seems as if that's the signal for the alcoholic to go right back to the sauce, and so it was with Lillian. Well, in a little while she gritted her teeth, decided there wasn't any place to go except up—or out a 10th-floor window—looked in on the Alcoholic Anonymous people, got married to a nice guy named Burt McGuire . . . and fled for Australia.

"New York wasn't to blame," she said to me over the cups and saucers. "—but I had been too miserable here. And I thought people were whispering and looking. People who've come out of institutions will know what I'm talking about."

"Everybody in town looked so formidable, and both consciously and subconsciously I told myself, 'Here's where I've been unhappy.' I took to walking through all the side streets. I didn't want to meet old friends who would try to evade me, figuring, as so many must have, well, here's just another drunk fighting it; she'll be back on the stuff in a little while."

So, the trip to Australia, where she worked and sang and visited prisons and helped try to spread the AA gospel, was the start of the long road back. She's come all the way, now. Last year the TV show, This Is Your Life, got 40,000 letters after it dramatized her story. She's just finished a singing engagement at a plush local saloon, she's been signed to a big recording contract and soon she'll be heading out on a cafe tour around America.

So she was going home to Florida for a brief rest this time—and walking, not running. "I'm over it now," she smiled. "About New York, I mean. I love the town and it's as exciting and wonderful as ever it was—only, of course, I have a home elsewhere." The way she said "home"—almost caressingly—made me, a complete cynic about reformed drunks, think: she's made it.

You start giving up drinking. If you are a drunk, because, desperately, you want to—but what, I wondered, you loud to Lillian keeps you on the wagon? She looked at me. "God," she replied.

Then, a little later in the day, there was Steve Allen, talking about the time he first blew into town, three years ago. We were drinking tall orange juices in a dark corner of the Harvard club in West 4th street—a setting so quiet and rarefied that Steve looked around uneasily and whispered, "Suppose I write out my answers?" and he was remembering just what struck him about Manhattan when he came here in 1950, before he hit it big as the town's sharpest, most popular TV comic.

"Everybody was fighting," he said thoughtfully. "Cab drivers, especially; they were yelling at everyone. Guys in restaurants would brush up against each other accidentally and snarl. 'Whaddya want—a busted jaw?' Cops would snap at pedestrians and pedestrians at autoists. I was astonished."

Now, he added with a grin, he doesn't notice it any more. "Which, I guess, proves that I've become like everyone else," he said. "I'm probably fighting all the time, too. However, I suppose it's just a reflex and that I'm not really fighting. Certainly I'm completely happy. I'm writing, playing the piano, acting, laughing it up on TV; I'm doing all the things I want to do."

Allen here in New York does a pre-midnight television show that is exquisite in its relaxed casual air. "It's my easiest hour of the 24" and he wondered pensively how long it would last. "First few months of any of my shows, I think the executives just peek in furtively at the studio and mutter, 'Wonder what he's doing, anyway?' he explained. 'Haven't had any pressure on me at all yet. Wouldn't it be nice if it was always that way?'"

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

If your boss habitually makes a lot of noise and throws his weight around like mad, don't judge him to be a cruel, nasty, mean, dangerous individual.

Way down deep in his heart he may be a perfectly harmless, kindly sort of a person, very much concerned about your welfare and only assuming that attitude of a man-eating tiger, to hide his weakness.

I should also advise wives to look upon their blustering husbands with dignified forbearance when they go sputtering around the house, barking at everybody within sight and assuming the general attitude of lord and masters.

Whenever a husband does that, you may be sure that he feels he is skating on very thin ice and has to show his wife what a big guy he is by play-acting what he thinks is a magnificent part, when all the time she knows he's just a ham.

The first specimen of the Warracaba tiger has just arrived at the New York Zoo from Guiana. The natives claim that the Warracaba is a small tiger with extremely destructive tendencies. They say that large packs sweep down from the mountains, chew up anything from hammocks to canoe paddles and raise general h-l.

While going on their destructive prowls the animals emit ghastly sounds, starting with "Wae, wae, wae" and ending in low, throaty growls. The noises they make resemble those of the trumpet bird, whose name is the Warracaba, and that is how the Warracaba tiger got his name.

For many years scientists have been trying to catch a Warracaba tiger, but could never find hide nor hair of him.

But finally one was caught and brought to the New York Zoo. What a surprise!

The so-called tiger turned out to be a perfectly harmless and somewhat scared little bushdog.

Dr. M. J. Leitner Discusses Heart Trouble Over Radio

The Heart Fund campaign, sponsored by the Stroudsburg Woman's Club, with Mrs. Parke W. Kunkle as co-chairman with Mrs. Will L. Kraemer, Tuesday at 4:05 p. m., launched its first of a series of five radio interviews over WVPO with some of our leading local doctors.

Dr. M. J. Leitner, president of the Monroe County Medical Society, answered numerous questions prepared by Mrs. Irving B. Kiffin from material supplied by the Pennsylvania Heart Association.

Dr. Leitner generalized on the diseases and physical changes that lead to heart damage, which are namely, rheumatic fever, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries.

The symptoms of these diseases will be explained in separate interviews throughout this week and next with answers that can be understood by the layman.

Dr. Leitner advised an immediate examination and diagnosis by a physician if there is any consciousness of a heart condition that seems abnormal.

But his advice was not to worry as nervousness and anxiety can cause palpitation and irregularities that do not signify actual heart disease; nor does a heart murmur necessarily mean organic or actual heart disease, so need not influence one's activities, or condemn a patient to invalidism.

Yet, he continued, a daily rest might be advisable, especially after 45. Even a pain in the chest may not imply that heart disease does exist, only a doctor can determine after examination, if the type of pain is serious, he said.

He mentioned the success of surgery for congenital heart disease and assured his listeners that research has proved that prevention, improvement and even cure of heart ailments have been accomplished with the aid of the patient who uses common sense and follows the doctor's advice.

Dr. Leitner warned against overweight, stating that statistics show that overweight people tend to die younger than lean ones.

These radio programs have been arranged as an educational help in alerting listeners to the need of learning some of the basic causes of heart disease, its prevention and to give hope to those who have actual disorders.

Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, president of the Woman's club, is in accord with this program which is being conducted by local physicians, club members and other volunteer workers, who plan a house to house visit. The collected donations will help the Heart Fund and Help Your Heart, it was stated last night.

Flowers Go To The Head In New Spring Hats

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor
When you go shopping for that Easter bonnet this year, you can pay your money and take your choice.

Practically every known shape, trimming and silhouette is available to please the fussiest shopper. There are shell bonnets, toques, small berets, sailors in many sizes and shapes, profile hats, large and small cloches, with deep crowns and downward sloping brims, Watteau silhouettes with brims wide in front, turned up in back. There are big hats, little hats and middle-sized hats. There are hats of straw, felt, fabric and flowers.

The newest way to wear your hat is flat and level on the head, tilted neither forward, backward nor sideways. After a season in which the beanie type hat seemed the national favorite, brims make news in the military lineup for Spring. These come in all versions, round, flat, squared-off, rippled, pleated, scalloped or cutout.

White and all the pastels are important in the new hats, with lots of natural straws cropping up, many hand-embroidered in flowers or butterflies.

All these trends were previewed recently at the annual Spring show held in New York by the millinery industry for the edification of buyers and press.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

If Gray's Chevrolet takes the measure of Johnson's Diner in a Pocono Mountains Basketball League contest on the Pocono High court tonight, it is quite possible that the first half of the current campaign will wind up in a three-team deadlock, that is providing each of the big three wins on Thursday. At the present time Johnson's quintet, which has felt the sting of injuries and illness, is in first place with a mark of seven wins and one setback.

Gray's club and Getz's Harmony Five are deadlocked for the number two position, each sporting six favorable decisions and two of the unfavorable variety. Each of the three clubs face hurdles next Thursday. If the three-way deadlock should come about, Johnson's Diner and Gray's Chevrolet battle at Tannersville next Wednesday. The winner of the Wednesday contest clashes with the Harmony Five on Saturday, at a time and place to be named. The Harmony Five drew a bye in the opening round.

While on the subject of the Pocono Mountains Basketball League it might be a good idea to mention that Wayne Wise, former member of the West End entry in the circuit, spent his first day as a freshman at Penn State yesterday. I hope those people interested in Little League baseball in this area haven't forgotten the big meeting scheduled to be held at East Stroudsburg Junior High school next Wednesday. Carl Stotz, commissioner and founder of the game, will be the featured guest. The gathering is open to anyone wishing to attend.

Byron "Chick" Miller, former Stroudsburg High player and now a member of the Utica College five, scored nine points last Saturday as Utica came up with an 85-72 verdict over Albany State. The lanky sharpshooter made four field goals in five attempts during the course of the ball game. Saturday's swimming meet between East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and Cortland, was originally scheduled for Saturday, March 6. The change in dates was made at the request of the New York school.

John Kupiec, popular basketball mentor at Stroudsburg High, plans to continue work on his Doctor's degree this summer, at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn. John also plans to play plenty of golf who not busy hitting the books and umpiring baseball games. Jack Whittle, football and basketball player at Stroudsburg High who suffered a broken foot in an automobile accident and missed the present campaign, will reportedly be ready for the Gold Medal Tournament late next month. One of the Stroudsburg cagers grew from a boy into a man right after the recent East Stroudsburg - Stroudsburg basketball contest, on the W. Main St. court.

At least one of the Stroudsburg High football players is talking about attending college in the south beginning next September. ESSTC victory over West Chester in swimming last Saturday was the first favorable decision scored by a Normal Hill contingent over a team from West Chester in the present college year. The soccer, football and baseball squads from ESSTC came close, but each failed to make the grade. Lee Hill, ESSTC soccer player who suffered a broken leg during the past season, was presented with a ball from his teammates yesterday. Each member of the squad chipped in to make the gift possible.

The warm up period before the ESSTC-Kutztown State Teachers College basketball game last night probably set some sort of a record—it lasted more than 20 minutes, despite requests from the crowd to get the show on the road. Officials assigned to work the game didn't appear in any sort of hurry to get the contest underway. From this scribe's vantage point a player who can't get ready to play a game in 10 minutes, at this date of the campaign, certainly can't be ready after 20 minutes of drilling.

It was obvious that the extra 10 minutes of warming up certainly didn't help either team, as players on both squads were laughing and fooling around instead of preparing for the task ahead. Bob Mellman, former member of the ESSTC basketball and baseball teams and a graduate of the local college last month, was present as a spectator at last night's contest on the Normal Hill court. Bob is currently playing with two basketball teams in the Easton area. Lehigh Valley High plans to play eight football games at night next season and one during the day.

The Indians will have their own lighting system in force by the opening of the campaign. The lone day engagement will take place with Catsaqua, on the latter's home field, Lehigh Valley is scheduled to play Stroudsburg, at Gordon Giffels field, on Friday, September 17, and East Stroudsburg, at Lehigh Valley, on Friday, October 8. Both of these battles are to be fought under the lights. Art Youngken, Johnson's Diner cager, passed out at work on Monday, but is expected to be ready for action against Gray's Chevrolet tonight.

Stroudsburg Scores Decision Over Lehigh Valley, 61-52

Mountaineers Gain Revenge For Early Loss

Lehigh Valley — Stroudsburg High cracked Lehigh Valley's zone defense on the latter's home court last night for the first time in many years and opened the second half of the Lehigh Valley League with a 61-52 verdict over the Indians.

The shooting of Don Garaventi and Captain Karl Weingartner from the outside proved too much for the home forces, as Stroudsburg gained sweet revenge for one of five first half setbacks. Last night's outing was the initial second half venture for both clubs. Stroudsburg used a powerful finish in the final period to insure victory, after the two arch rivals waged a nip-and-tuck struggle most of the way.

The Mountaineers held a 16-13 edge at the end of the first period, but Lehigh Valley rebounded into a 33-32 lead at the halfway mark.

Stroudsburg, featuring four scorers in double figures, held the Indians on even terms in a very slow moving third round, as each club scored seven points. The Indians marched into the final stanza on the long end of a 40-39 count.

Coach John Kupiec watched his maroon and white clad forces run wild in the final eight minutes of action to pour 22 points into the hoops while holding the host aggregation to 12 counters.

Garaventi accounted for 18 points on nine field goals from the outside. Weingartner came up with 14, while Dave Nevill and Dick Little added 11 and 10 to the final total.

Stroudsburg made good on 13 of 21 foul shots, while Lehigh Valley could hit on only eight of 21 attempts. The Mountaineers held a 24-22 advantage in field goals.

Don Shekier, Jerry Semmell and Dick Koch led the losing offensive with 15, 13 and 13 markers respectively.

Lehigh Valley gained a measure of revenge by winning the junior varsity battle between the two schools, 55-40.

Parkland Nips East Stroudsburg In Overtime

Warriors Gain Easy Win Over Kutztown Foe, 73-52

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College registered its second basketball victory in nine outings last night by taking the measure of Kutztown Teachers, 73-52, in the Normal Hill gymnasium.

The Warriors fought back from a four-point deficit at halftime to easily defeat the visiting squad that now boasts a record of one win and seven setbacks.

Kutztown proved troublesome until late in the third quarter, but the Warriors broke the game wide open with 24 points in the final period, as compared to 12 for the visiting contingent.

Wilmont Smith was the top scorer for ESSTC, but George Heidenreich and Ray Kaseman played the role of "feeders," as the charges of Coach Chris Denis put on one of their most impressive showings of the current campaign.

Early Advantage
Kutztown stepped away to a quick 9-3 advantage, but both teams wound up the opening period with 13 points. The visiting cagers moved into a 30-26 lead at halftime, by holding a 17-13 advantage in the second round.

ESSTC fought back to tie the Kutztown late in the third stanza at 40-40. A foul shot by Nick Gatto and a brilliant field goal by Kaseman right at the buzzer enabled the Warriors to take a 43-40 advantage into the final round.

Smith and John Sloan did the bulk of the scoring for the home team in the final quarter, as the Warriors completely ran over the opposition.

ESSTC made good on 17 of 24 foul shots, while Kutztown "swished" the nets on 16 of 21 attempts from the same distance. ESSTC held a 28-18 edge in field goals.

Smith tallied his 24 points on 10 goals from the floor and four from the foul line. Gatto finished with 18 and Sloan 17. Ken Cocivera was the big gun for Kutztown with 15 markers.

ESSTC's junior varsity took the measure of Oxford Lions Club in the preliminary tussle, 62-46.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will tangle with one of the toughest wrestling machines in the state of Pennsylvania today when the Warriors match ability with Lock Haven Teachers, on the latter's home mats. The initial match is scheduled to take place at 8 p. m.

Lock Haven is an annual mat power, not only in Pennsylvania, but throughout the United States. The Bald Eagles recently defeated West Chester, after the Rams had scored a favorable decision over the University of Pennsylvania.

Lost Opener
ESSTC, featuring a much improved squad over that of last season, dropped its opening match of the season against Millersville last Saturday, 26-5, although every match on the bill was closely contested.

Coach George Ockershausen announced last night that he would stick with the same lineup that opposed Millersville last Saturday.

Nazareth—Bangor High waged an uphill fight here last night but wound up second best to Nazareth, 67-62, in a Lehigh-Northampton League basketball game played on the winning contingent's home court.

The host cagers jumped off to a quick 11-0 lead and it wasn't until four minutes had been played that Bangor registered its initial field goal, a one-hander by Wayne Pysher.

Fight Back
Nazareth finished the first period on the long end of a 21-4 count, but Bangor used a pressing defense in the second stanza and finished on the long end of a 22-16 count.

Bangor, led by Pysher and Gary Wynne continued its uphill fight in the second half, 18-13 in the third quarter, and 18-17 in the final period, but the host aggregation was too strong in the fading moments of play.

Roth Scores With Three Seconds Left

East Stroudsburg High forced a powerful Parkland cage machine into overtime last night before the visiting contingent could account for a 50-49 victory over the Cavaliers, on the N. Courtland St. floor.

Brad Roth slipped a layup shot into the cords with only three seconds remaining in the overtime session to give Parkland the victory, although the Cavaliers held the upper hand for most of the contest.

East Stroudsburg held a 49-48 lead with the clock ticking toward the finish mark and a jump ball was called at mid court. Roth took the tap and drove under the home team's basket to drive home the winning two-pointer.

The Cavaliers once again found foul shooting a handicap, as the home team was presented with eight scoring opportunities in the last 45 seconds, but could take advantage of only two.

Parkland broke away to a 9-2 lead in the infant moments of the contest, but the two Lehigh-Northampton League clubs reached the end of the first period in a 14-14 deadlock.

East Stroudsburg displayed some of its best basketball of the campaign in the second round, while outscoring the Parkland five, 13-3, and moving into a 27-17 advantage at halftime.

Parkland, the team that was in the middle of the first half flag race right up to the final game, made up for lost time during the second half as it outscored the Cavaliers in the third period, 16-9, and in the final stanza, 12-9.

The visiting five held a 5-4 edge in the overtime session, but it took Roth's field goal in the fading seconds to decide the issue.

Bill Pensyl led the East Stroudsburg attack with 23 points, as five Cavaliers broke into the scoring column. Pensyl scored 13 points from the foul line.

East Stroudsburg made good on 19 of 35 shots from the foul line, while Parkland rang the bell on 16 of 33 charity tosses.

Parkland won the junior varsity encounter, 51-36, with Danny Marvin leading the attack for the home club with 13 counters.

Poconos Use Strong Second Half To Sink Hackettstown

Hackettstown—Stroudsburg's pennant hungry Poconos came up with a big second half here last night to score a 96-81 Blue Mountain League victory over third place Hackettstown. The Poconos are currently locked in a virtual tie for first place with Weston.

The Poconos trailed through the first half, but came roaring back with a terrific second half to insure victory.

Hackettstown led 26-21 at the end of the first period and 48-36 at the halfway mark, but the advantage melted before Stroudsburg's powerful finishing kick.

Led by Henry "Hank" Stetler, Paul "Muff" Warnick, Jim "Bunky" Smith and Harvey "Hutsey" Bergman, the Poconos blasted their way to 30 points in each of the third and fourth quarters, while Hackettstown club picked up 14 counters in the third round and 19 in the home stretch.

The visiting team's closing rush took all doubt out of the final line.

Stetler led the winning attack with 27 counters, on 11 field goals and five foul shots. Applegate, with 21 markers, was the big gun in a losing cause.

Nu-Maid To Consolidate Work Here

until first stages of the move are completed, however, Matison said. Within three months, the mill expects to employ an added 50 or more workers. From that point on, the employment level is expected to increase gradually until the maximum operation is reached.

If the dye house operation were to be added—and Matison again emphasized that this was purely a "possibility"—another group of workers would be needed.

The same is true of added warehouse facilities if, and when, they should be built at the local plant. At present, Nu-Maid's local operation accounts for an estimated four to five million dollars per year in product output. Not all the shipping is produced locally, however, since some materials are purchased outright from other industries.

Right now at least a portion of the plans are definite, Matison said. The shipping department—including warehouse facilities—will be ready to "go into operation the first part of next week."

In addition to Matison, who will be in charge of general operations at the plant and Nu-Maid's other mills, and Scott, who will be in complete charge of the office, the local Nu-Maid mill will retain as supervisor a man who has been with the company's local plant since its inception.

This man, Scott said, is Lona Arnold, Stroudsburg RD 3. Arnold began working for Nu-Maid at 18; has been with the local plant all of its 27 years.

Arnold will continue his duties as supervisor in charge of knitting operations at the plant.

Scott is no newcomer to the Stroudsburg scene. He was manager of the local Nu-Maid plant from 1944 to 1947 when he left to assume duties at the Darby mill.

While living in the area he was active in civic affairs. He will return to this area immediately, moving his family from Philadelphia to Monroe County sometime this year, he indicated.

Von Broock To Review Park Plans

The Edison National Park which would be located between Pennsylvania and New Jersey at Delaware Water Gap under plans proposed by Walter von Broock, one of the former owners of The Penn-Stroud, will be reviewed by the Edison Pioneers at a meeting in Waldorf Astoria Hotel Saturday.

Mr. von Broock, a member of Edison Pioneers, will give a report of his "stewardship" on promotion of the Edison national monument park, to the membership of Edison Pioneers.

His report will deal with achievement in behalf of the Edison National Park during the past year. Mr. von Broock filed a similar report at the Edison Pioneers banquet last year.

Mr. von Broock served as secretary-assistant to Charles Edison at the Edison Laboratories in West Orange, N. J., and by virtue of this service is a member of Edison Pioneers.

His Edison National park plan would involve development of part of the Blue Ridge, Poconos and Kittatinny Mountains and part of the Appalachian Trail.

Mr. von Broock predicts development of the park would attract some five million persons from 48 states.

His report Saturday, he believes, will result in some formal action by the Edison Pioneers to get such a project under way on the 75th anniversary of the invention of the electric light by Thomas A. Edison.

Experts Map Way To Kill Mine Fire

Harrisburg (AP) — A federal-state conference brought agreement yesterday that drilling bore holes and flushing the area with silt and water was the best means of attacking a mine fire burning under scores of homes at Carbon-dale.

Mines Secretary W. J. Clements said a four-man investigating committee will make an on-the-spot survey of the area today to devise plans for carrying out the program. Excavation of some of the area by power shovels may also take place in fighting the blaze from the surface, he said after a meeting of federal and state officials here.

Meanwhile, city engineer W. L. Giles of Carbon-dale said some 300 dwellings may have to be razed or moved at a cost of $350,000 to provide access in battling the underground blaze on the west side of the Lackawanna County city.

Fifteen Carbon-dale residents were made ill 10 days ago from carbon monoxide fumes going off by the burning coal seams. Mayor Frank Kelly declared an emergency and federal and state officials entered the picture to step up fire-fighting efforts.

In reporting the raging plan, Giles said:

"The area would be completely devastated and there is no hope of saving the homes as far as I can determine."

He cited the grave economic impact the razing or relocation of 300 dwellings would have on the Carbon-dale tax structure since the assessed valuation of the properties involved would drop to practically zero.

Committee Considers Aiding Girl

Efforts to devise a program to assist blind 21-year-old Irene Van Why in her quest to become self-supporting were furthered yesterday afternoon by a volunteer committee meeting at Ronson, Inc. offices, East Stroudsburg.

Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester VanWhy, 87 S. Second St., Stroudsburg, has little chance of regaining her eyesight, a Stroudsburg eye doctor declared following an examination last week.

Committee personnel embarked on a program to help Irene sell leather belts and wallets she makes at home. Yesterday the young girl finished another group of belts, using material purchased through public contributions.

Organizations who contributed for Irene were again urged to retain their money since the committee is expected to contact them with a suggestion the donations buy the belts already made, and distribution then be made to the donors. In this manner, it was decided, Irene will have established a small business for herself and can use profits to buy more materials.

Other suggestions for full-time employment were discussed and it was reported Irene's case has been referred to the Bureau of Rehabilitation in hopes they may aid the girl through their programming.

Bridge Bill Advanced By N. J. Senate

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 2.—The New Jersey Senate has passed on second reading a bill to prevent the Delaware Joint Toll Commission from demolishing the Delaware River bridge on Route 46 between Delaware, N. J., and Upper Mt. Bethel Township, Pa.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Wayne Dumont (R-Warren), is slated for final passage next Monday, it prohibits "interference with the use of, or any demolition of, any Delaware River bridge north of bridges between Phillipsburg and Easton in use as of Dec. 1, 1953, unless the state consents."

The bill is similar to one passed at the special session of the New Jersey Legislature at the end of 1953 and the beginning of 1954 which the retiring governor, Alfred E. Driscoll, refused to sign.

Gov. Driscoll told Dumont on the day he left office on Jan. 18 that he considered the measure an action by one state which violated a bi-state agreement with Pennsylvania.

A small estate was left to his brother by Frederick R. Muehlhan, 48, Delaware Water Gap, who died Dec. 3, according to will.

Birdsall is not actively concerned with politics. He never sought office and does not plan to run for re-election in 1955, if appointed.

Lester F. Burlein, Wayne County Republican chairman who submitted Birdsall's name, had said some time ago that a person not connected with politics and obviously qualified would be named. The term does not end until January, 1956.

Mrs. Spangenberg resigned Jan. 18 while plans were under way for her trial in criminal court. She had been charged with alleged shortages, but denied the charges and blamed the issue on bookkeeping. Her trial was not pressed and nolle prossed when she submitted her resignation.

MORE ABOUT SCHOLARSHIPS

PP&L has outlined its program of educational assistance in an informative 12-page pamphlet, that covers the program from its aims and purposes to the broad details of the scholarships. Educators, parents, young people, business and industrial corporations . . . anybody interested in any way in higher education . . . can obtain a copy of this booklet by stopping at or writing your nearest PP&L office.

How well these simple words have weathered the years! Today, as then, their wisdom stands unchallenged as a vital stimulus to continued progress.

The development of our resources, the molding of our society, the shaping of individuals . . . these have been the tasks assigned to education. Not to teach what to think but how to think so that mature judgment may be passed and wise and just decisions reached. Thus, education forms the foundation for liberty, standing as a bulwark against those who would destroy freedom.

Our whole society has harvested the fruits of education . . . no single group has been a greater beneficiary than another. But the very contributions education has made instill in every phase of our society a responsibility for its encouragement, support and development. American business and industry . . . as important members of our free society . . . are no exceptions.

Pennsylvania Power & Light Company, realizing its responsibility . . . and being aware that independent colleges and the free-thinking young people they produce are indispensable to our way of life . . . has inaugurated a new program of educational assistance.
